The Grounds for Suspecting Forrester of the Nathan Murder.

A New York dispatch says that although public belief in the implication of Billy Forrester in the Nathan tragedy has a taste for rat flesh that he is the terror of a taste for rat flesh that he is the terror of a taste for rat flesh that he is the terror of a taste for rat flesh that he is the terror of a taste for rat flesh that he is the terror of a taste for rat flesh that he is the terror of a taste for rat flesh that he is the terror of a taste for rat flesh that he is the terror of a taste for rat flesh that he is the terror of a taste for rat flesh that he is the terror of a taste for rat flesh that he is the flesh that he is the strongest. After a short time the fight is renewed, and the next weakest is the victim, and so it goes on till one strong ratio flesh that he is the strongest. Billy Forrester in the Nathan tragedy has a taste for rat flesh that he is the terror of never been strong, yet among detectives and reporters many are found to assert that he is the assassin. So far as the case against him has been made public, it embraces the following assertions: The ship traces are abandoned by all other rats, which will not come back before the cannibal rat has left or has died.—Manucarpenter's iron "dog" with which Mr. Nathan was so brutally murdered, or one Natian was so britishly mardered, or one very similar to it, was traced to Forrester's possession. In May, 1870, the residence of Mr. Schenck on Fitth avenue, was entered and robbed by burglars. Among the articles carried oil was a "dog," which had been used in opening cases of wine, &c. The sons of Mr. Schenck mon being shown the "doe" Schenck upon being shown the "dog tound in the house of Mr. Nathan, it is al leged, fully identified it as the one which had been stolen from their house. This was an important point gained, and it was subsequently ascertained almost to a cer-tainty that Forrester and Ellis were both growing demand, upon the resources of the United States, as seen in our vasily in-screased exports of cheese, bacon, and lard. This drain on our resources, how-ever is met with an ample supply, except for bacon, and so no advance in figures is probable for the coming year. The conengaged in the burglary at Mr. Schenck's house. This would naturally connect For-rester with the latal instrument. It is alrester with the latal instrument. It is alleged that the police authorities have had positive information that a few nights before the murder Forrester, under an assumed name, occupied a room at the Fitth Avenue Hotel, and that he desired, and was given a room on the Twenty-third street side of the hotel, overlooking the Nathan manifold. It is asserted the Forther than the contraction of the first production of the forther than Nathan mansion. It is asserted that For-rester was seen in the vestibule of the ho-tel on the night before the murder. The teron the night before the marger. The evidence in the hands of the police is doubtless stronger than these points on which alone he could not be convicted. It is further claimed by the police authori-ties that Forrester was not alone in this job, but that he had one or perhaps two Gov. Jacob Reported for Greeley.
